Discovers of a Salt Mine in Yolo County. The State Journal says: A few days since, in Cache Creek Canon, Yolo county, was discovered an extensive bed of fossil salt. Through this canon do the waters of the Cache Creek flow from the Clear Lake Valley to the Sacramento Valley. The canon is some 20 miles long, will average nearly three in width, and is incissed on either side by a range of hills. About half way up the canon, and on the north or valley side, is the fossil salt bed. There is a canon running northward through this valley-side range, from the base to the summit of the mountain, on either side of which the salt, ready for use, crops outvastly. We ourself saw its bald nead many months since, peering in the noonday sun with dazzling brightness; but as it is a lonely spot, where hunters seldom go, and travelers never, our curiosity was not and of the mountain, on either side of go, and travelers never, our curiosity was not and of the mononday sun with dazzling brightness; but as it is a lonely spot, where hunters seldom go, and travelers never, our curiosity was not may own cousin, but to the fourth or fifth remove, though of uncle Williams, and as he, too, was an orphan, and my uncle his guardian, we have from childhood.

I recalled our early association; his childish of the salt could but remember were his only beauty, large, dark, and expressive; and I thought, too, of all the stories I had ever read of happy girls made miserable wives, all to please some hard-hearted guardian, or money-loving mamma, and I inwardly resolved that I would be made the victim of no such scheme; no, I would not marry cousin John, if I did like him, and I knew the fourth of the mountain, or citered the fourth of the mountain, or citered the same family, and been playmates, and a set Such State of the wathout. Through this canon do the waters of the Cache Creek flow from ing in the noonday sun with dazzlieg brightness; but as it is a lonely spot, where hunters seldom go, and travelers never, our curiosity was not sufficiently excited to lead us on a prospecting tour. The salt is there though, and in any quantity. The full extent of the mine cannot now be stated, but enough is known to justify us in saying that there is sufficient to supply California for half a century. The property is already squatted on by the discoverers, who, in addition to their possession, will cover it with land warrants.

The indian war in washington territory.

Governor Stephens arrived at Olympia on or about the 221 of January, where he was received a form of the part of the part of the ward and presented, with, I fancied, a decided coolage.

"Mr. Legrand: a friend of my nephew."

The two weeks passed swiftly by, and the evening of my party came, yet no cousin John had appeared.

Clad in snowy silk, my hair simply bound with a wreath of Lily of the Valley, at an early hour I descended to the parlors to ascertain if all arrangements were complete. As I entered the front parlor, the first that caught my eye was my uncle and a gentleman, whom I at once supposed to be my taken, for, seeing me, Uncle Williams came for ward and presented, with, I fancied, a decided coolage.

Of this, however, we nnot speak knowingly, as we have not given them a sufficient test. The proprietors have put up a large number of their burners in St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit and Indianapolis, and are now about to wait upon the citizens of Louisville .-They are an advantage over other burners in several respects. Their single burners have a very small orifice, which they call the Scotch nipple. It is made of steel, and becoming heated to a great intensity, consumes the carbon of the gas, and gives a white, thin light. They estimate a saving of 83 per cent. of gas by their burners, with a better light than is afforded by any other burner now pefore the public.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, 5th inst.1 THE GRISWOLD DIVORCE CASE Scandal and Excitement in Literary Everybody has heard of the Rev. Rufus Wilnot Griswold, author of "Poets and Poetry in America," and other collections principally composed of trash. The Rev. Wilmot is a literary quack, and this divorce case shows him up in a dadies; he published a biography of me, which are style. The case came up on a motion of Mrs. contained misstatements; this I do not care much about, however; he afterward called at my lodg of divorce granted in June, 1852, as that decree was fraudulently obtained. The case is before the Philadelphia Common Pleas.

The affidavit of the respondent, Mrs. Griswold ras read. It was taken in Charleston, S. C. where she resides. She deposes that she was seretly married to Dr. Griswold on the 20th of August, 1845, in New York city; that they lived together for five or six years in New York, Philadelphia and Charleston, and while in Charleston, in 1851, he "deserted, neglected, abused, cruelly and shamefully treated, abandoned and refused to ve with her.

It was distinct y understood that as her health was delicate she should live in the South in winter. He also stated that his two daughters had $10,000 each setded on them, and that he himself had $30,000, not one word of which, says deponent, was true, although she then believed it. He would not pubish their marriage, nor allow even the proprietor of the hotel where it took place to know of it; nor would he permit her to speak of it, as he said it would ruin him if it were known to his friends. They left New York for Philadelphia, when Dr. d. became involved in debt, and Mrs. G. pledged her yearly income to clear him. He told her he ould not then go to Charleston, but that she must o without him. About Christmas he came to Charleston, got money of her, and returned immeliately to Philadelphia for the purpose, as he alleged, of bringing out a book for the spring trade.
"Why," said Mrs. G., "what will the world think of you and your conduct toward me?"

"Well," says he, "if you will let me have $500
I will remain with you!" She gave him the amount. He then pretended that he was going to purchase a splendid pair of norses, and was about disposing of his wife's means in different ways, when he was compelled by her friends to make over to her her own prop-erty. He settled $3,000 of it on his daughter, and kept $1,000 himself, and in the spring of 1846 left r Philadelphia, saying :

"I should never treat you kindly if I were to On the first of July she followed him to Philaleiphia. "They occupied a room at Jones' Hotel, where Dr. G. treated her in a wanton, shameless, nd cruel manner." Rufus W. as his wife, she did not enjoy a single lay of perfect health, suffering from an internal Whenever deponent had attacks of illness he would try to aggravate it and annoy her in vari-ous ways to increase it by unkindness. The sixth-ummer after the said marriage, the said Rufus rould come home at 5 o'clock in the morningmetimes he stayed out all night; he was ally absent four or five nights in a week; he was in the habit of intercepting and reading deponent's letters, and sometimes he would seal them again or deponent. He desired that the aunts with whom deponent lived should remove to the city of New York and purchase a house for him, that he might have a literary soirce every Saturday night.

This was refused. He then said that he would be

This was retused. He then said that he would be divorced from deponent, as she could control her aunts; that he could get a divorce in Philadelphia for fourteen dollars, and that he would get it."

Mrs. Griswold goes on to depose that the last two summers she spent in the North, he refused to live with her, though he sent for her. "He once directed her to look for board and lodgings at a house of ill-fame in New York; and one summer he kept deponent in a small room so heated by a fine, that her health was seriously impaired for three or four months thereafter. Notwithstanding such treatment, deponent defrayed the said Rufus W.'s board and expenses, even to his omnibus hire, without ever receiving from him a sixpense in return. * * * The cheeks of deponent would tingle with shame to repeat all the barbarities she had been compelled to endure at the hands of the said Eufus W., her said husband."

She subsequently heard that he was married to another woman. She did not then know that a divorce had been granted. She proceeds to detail the means he had used to induce her to agree to a divorce. He threatened to take her child away, and at Scholey's Mountain, in 1852, he went to her, disguised, and in endeavoring to procure her fessional friend to the celebrated Chemist, Dr. J.

He agreed, if she would sign this paper, that he would guarantee the child to her forever and re-store upwards of $5,000 he had at various times taken from her. After obtaining her signature he refused to fulfil his promise and said he never intended to do so.

She further deposes that she is ignorant of the evidence on which the divorce was granted, and that the record of the proceedings has been abstracted from the Prothonotary's office. She denies that she ever deserted Dr. G., as he swore in his libel. She also denies all knowledge of disrespectful and disgraceful letters, purporting to emanate from her, and addressed to the Judges of the Common Please, and declares them forgeries. She therefore prays that the decree of divorce be set aside and annulled, on the ground that it was obtained by fraud and imposition on the

I know the general character of R. W. tiriswold for truth and veracity; I have heard a great many persons speak of him; I have known it within a ear from acquaintance with him; his character or truth and veracity is very bad; in the fall of 1747, I heard R. W. Griswold say he considered aimself a resident of Charleston, S. C., his name being on a doorplate there, and that some of his family was there—his wife, he said, was there, and took care of his books; he said she was a very nice person; the question was asked him by som answer was, Oh no, she is a very nice person he said also she had the care of his little girl; should say that the correspondence between myself and Mrs. Griswold commenced by my receiving a letter from her in October, or November, 1852; I reside in New York; I am of responsible age; I cannot state my age of my own knowledge; irrespective of a very unfavorable opinion of the conduct and character of Rufus W. Griswold, I cannot say that I am correspond to the interpretable of the conduct and character of Rufus W. Griswold, I cannot say that I am hostile to him. personally hostile to him; I am hostile to his haracter and conduct, and have been since a few weeks after our acquaintance; the cause of this hostility to him was his character and manaer unbecoming a clergyman; also his habits of boasting of the favors and correspondence of withdraw an article which I had written and sent to the North American Review, reviewing his work on the "Female Poets of America" and other works on the same subject, to make room for another article, which he supposed would be more favorable to himself; he also made statements to me in regard to Miss Mary, which I knew to be untrue at the time; he also stated to me that a biography of Mrs. Furguson had been sent to him in manuscript before it was published in the Port-Folio; it had been published over thirty years in the Port-Folio; and he had told me previously in the winter he was only thirty-four years of age; during the winter of 1848, he offer ed to me to write to Professor Green, of Provi-dence, in reference to some memoirs of his grand-

Elections, made a report, presenting reasons for re-newing the demands for authority to send for persons and papers in the Kansas contested election case. It starts out by representing that an allegation on the part of Gov. Reeder is, that the Legislature which passed the election law under the provision of which Gen. Whitfield was chosen, was imposed upon the receipe of the targitors by was imposed upon the people of the territory by a foreign invading force, who seized upon the gov-ernment and have exercised it ever since. That the people there are in a subjugated state. It hen discusses at length the following questions: 1st. The necessity of having an investigation of the facts in dispute.

2d. The effect of the act of Gov. Reeder in issuing certificates of their election to a portion of the Legislature.

3d. Whether evidence to establish the facts can

3d. Whether evidence to establish the facts can be had satisfactorily by depositions.

Upon the first point, it is urged that State affairs there have excited the feelings of the whole people of the Union—that it is the theme of a Parish of the Charles and the state of the Charles and the control of the Charles and the charles are charles are charles and the charles are charles are charles are charles are charles are charles and the charles are charles are charles are charles are charles and the charles are charles are charles are charles are charles and the charles are charles are charles are charles are charles and the charles are charles are charles are charles are charles and the charles are charles a Presidential message and proclamation, and that sovereign States in different portions of the Union have considered the propriety of interference by men and arms—that the question to be settled is, whether a military power has seized upon territory and governs it by a strong hand—that this question FAREWELL BENEFIT OF involves the cristence of self-government and involves the existence of self-government, and cannot be settled by groping among assertions and denials, but only by facts proved.

Upon the second point, it contends that the people of the Territory cannot be prejudiced by whatever Reeder did as Governor; that the people are now contesting the seat through him, and that, if it was not so, still Congress could and should investigate it, if a reasonable doubt exists as to the right of Gen. Whitfield to a seat.

Upon the third point, it argues a commission to take depositions would be fruitless; that the President records the presence of the average the dent regards the presence of the army there as necessary to preserve peace, and the execution of the commission would bring the belligerent parties face to face, and incite to hostilities; that it would be equivalent to an effort to obtain territory on a bently fold and that commissions will be equivalent to an effort to obtain territory on a bently fold and that commissions will be the commissions of the army three as Jenny Lind.

In the course of the argument the committee allude to the fact that ordinarily in despotisms their subjects enjoy some degree of peace and quiet, while in Kansas the settlers are not only alleged to be reduced to State vassalage to a foreign power, but that personal safety is unknown, and murder and outrage are said to be almost the daily record of its history. I brown nemetrs, Reeder wishes to send for persons and papers, thus making the House not only judges of the qualifications and returns of its own members, but of the members of Territorial and State Legislatures, which of course follows. This would be assuming a position not properly pertaining to the House, and establish a precedent of daugerous tendency. If the House conclude that the examination shall be gone into, the end would be better attained by sending commissioners to Kansas to take such testimony as may be pertinent and competent, whereas sending for persons and papers would occasion much delay, unconvenience, and trouble, if not prove impracticable. The fine steamer OMAHA, Holthat the members who passed that law were not themselves properly elected and returned, is to be established. islature took their seats without cavil or complaint from Reeder, who commissioned those very members by whom the law was passed under which Whitfield was elected. The pretext of Reeder, that the members of the Legislature were illegally elected, stops in view of the facts stated. The report is signed—Stephens, Oliver of Missouri, and Smith of Alabama. The further consideration of the subject was postponed until to-morrow, and the House went into Committee of the Whole.

Grow assailed the President's special message upon Kansas, maintaining that the people had a right to call a Convention to form a Constitution, and earnestly condemned the effort to extend slavery over a free Territory.

Mr. Cadwallader argued that legislation, under the Constitution has always hear to make a muvention.

The Courcil finally adopted a resolution pledging the American party of Massachusetts to the support of the Springfield platform, and refusing to adopt the Philadelphia nominees until assured that they heartily indorse American principles, and will vindicate the just rights of the free men of the North.

The resolution passed by a large majority.

Mr. Set Market & C.O. Auctioneers. MILWAUKIE, March 5. In the matter of contested election for Governor of Wisconsin between Gov. Barstow and Mr. Bashford, his competitor in the last canvass, the Supreme Court has overruled Barstow's plea as to jurisdiction, without deciding the finality of the canvass. Gov. Barstow has leave to put in further pleadings.

The Democratic Convention nominated George Scott for Canal Commissioner, Jacob Fry for Au ditor, and Timothy Ives for Surveyor General.

I have seen several of Dr. Price's patients; amongs others, Mr. S. H. Dickerson, of Monroe co. At the time I saw him he was diseased from head to foot. The left side of his face and neck was greatly enlarged and swollen. All of the left side of his neck, breast, and right shoulder were a mass of filtry diseases and running sores. As he would work his arms, the air would escape from deep ulcers under his collar bones, causing filthy matter and blood to bubble out. The use of the probe had proved that some of these ulcers extended into the hollow of the body. Mr. Dickerson put himself under Br. A FTER THE PRESENTATION

A of my compliments to my friends and patrons, I would call attention to my fall stock of fancy Cassimeres. Cashmeres, and Plushes, now in store, selected by myself from the latest eastern importations. The goods this season comprise handsomer designs and more superior fabrics than ever before, and I would advise my friends to select early while the assortment is large and choice patterns can be procured. Of Cloths I have a superior supply, of all the varied shades of bronze, brown, olive, blue, and green, of Dumor & Masson's make, suitable for Dress, Frock, and Morning Coats, and, as usual, black and fancy colors, of every manufacture. manufacture.

Business Suits made up to measure, or Pants and Vests singly, at as low rates as they can be purchased of any clothing establishment in this city.

The great value of this work has been subciently proved by its adoption as a text book by the various liquor manufacturers of the city of New York. RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE PRESS.

This work will be found to supply the dealer in li-quors, wines, vinegar, &c., with a thorough teacher and guide amid all the varied and intricate processes of this business.—N. O. Picayune. quors, wines, vinegar, &c., with a thorough teacher and guide amid all the varied and intricate processes of this business.—N. O. Picayums.

It were a work of supererogation to praise a book of Mons. Lacour'z writing. The volume before us is remarkable for its completeness and the exact practical directions which it gives. Uid manufacturers will find all of the old modes entirely superseded. The use of the old formulas would appear as the "foam of folly' in the presence of the new ones sugested in this work. One of the principal objects appears to be to avoid, as far as possible, the use of apparatus or expensive (to the operator) appliances of any kind in the manufacture of liquors, &c.—New York Times.

This volume contains the art of preparing and put ting up the whole list of drinkables, from a choice pipe of Otard Dupuy, of the vintage of 1785, to a simple and economical manner of making cider without apples, by fermentation. A friend has applied the recipe for converting 23 gallons of whisky into 40 gallons with the most satisfactory results. The latter quality does not possess an equal amount of intoxicating properties to the former, though the 40 gallons was of a much liner color, taste, and odor—New York Mechanic.

This much talked of book is at hand. It contains a mass of information that is perfectly astonishing, and could only have been acquired from actual observation. If you wish to see ingenuity applied, look in a copy of Lacour on Liquor. Practicability appears to havebeen the design of the author. No delays are necessary to ascertain the results of an application of a recipe. We speak from actual observation.—Pkil. Sun.

This work will revolutionize the presentity le of manufacturing liquors.—New York Herald.
